

SIMON SHAPIRO BETWEEN THE NOISE

Waiting for the lights to change words and music by Simon Shapiro

Are you waiting for the lights to change?
Are you waiting for the sky to clear?
Do you wait for luck to come your way?
And if it doesn't will you stay right here?

Are you waiting for the phone to ring?
Or are you waiting for a telegram?
Are you gonna be the next big thing?
If the world would only understand

Are you waiting for the world
To turn itself to your side?
If you wait to take your turn
I know that your gonna wait a long time

Are you waiting for the perfect plan?
Are you waiting for a better deal?
Are you waiting for a helping hand?
Or do you wait for the wounds to heal?

Are you waiting till the stars align?
Or are you waiting till the fear is gone?
If you're waiting for a holy sign?
Will you know it when it comes along?

Are you waiting for the world
To turn itself to your side?
If you wait to take your turn
I know that your gonna wait a long time

You might find that the world ain't gonna change
Take your time stand in line, you'll be waiting
Waiting for your life to change

Are you waiting for the lights to change?
Are you waiting for the sky to clear?
If you're waiting for the cavalry
I can tell you their not coming here

Are you waiting for the world
To turn itself to your side?
If you wait to take your turn
I know you'll wait a long time

Are you waiting for the light
To shine itself on your life?
If you wait to take your turn
I know that you're gonna wait a long time

So are you waiting for your life to change?
Are you waiting for the sky to clear?
Do you wait for luck to come your way?
And if it doesn't will you stay right here?
