

SIMON SHAPIRO BETWEEN THE NOISE

What a Day

words and music by Simon Shapiro

What a day to make a thousand calls that get you nowhere
What a day to wait an hour for someone who's not there
What a day to stand in line for tickets that are sold out
What a day to change your mind and tell me that you want out

What a lie, what a game
But you can't lose if you don't play
What a lie, what a day

What a day to walk the dog but find she ran away
What a day to lose your job and to get robbed on the way
What a day to miss the bus but catch a cold again
What a day to visit my best friend and find you're with him

What a lie, what a game
But you can't lose if you don't play
What a lie...

What a day to finally come awake
And see the mess that you have made
A life you don't want overtakes
As the world you thought you had just drifts away

Into a day where strong will break, the trapped escape, the dead will wake Truth will fake, will pleasure ache, give will take, will steady shake?
Out of control, the blackest hole, an empty soul, I'm gonna go
To the abyss, the long cold kiss, ungranted wishes

What a lie, what a game
But you can't lose if you don't play
What a time, is there no way
That we can choose another way?
What a lie, what a day
Oh what a day

Knots untied and soul-divided
Lost in circles undecided
What a lie a game to play
There's nothing more to say
But what a day
