

SIMON SHAPIRO BETWEEN THE NOISE

You and I

words and music by Simon Shapiro

You and I could lie on the soft ground
Stare into the sky and all the white clouds
That one looks like Homer drinking beer
Love is never over even when it's far from here

So far away from far away
We'll learn to leave but still remain
And when we go we'll always stay
So far away from far away

You and I could float on a small lake
In a tiny boat umbrella for shade
We could drift forever away and far
We'll always be together
Even when we're far from apart

So far away from far away
We'll learn to leave but still remain
And when we go we'll always stay
So far away

You and I could lie to each other
We could kiss goodbye
Try to love another
That would get us nowhere
What is clear
We'll always be together
Whether we are far or near

So far away from far away
We'll learn to leave but still remain
And when we go we'll always stay
So far away From far away

(Because wherever I am I know you are there, and wherever you are so will I be)
